WARE BUSINESS ABOVE AVERAGE, PLANT REPORTS

Salem China Co. Represented At Show In New York

SALES "BETTER THAN EXPECTED"

Manufacturers To Consider New Pact At Wednesday Rally

Business at the New York Houseware association show in New York City last week was "better than expected," it was announced today by officials of the Salem China Co.

The Salem firm had its regular line on display at the show, in charge of J. A. Armstrong, sales manager.

An encouraging, though probably slow, upward trend was observed in a survey of representatives of the pottery industry from the eastern Ohio district who attended the seven-day exhibit.

Salem China Co. officials today indicated that operations at the local plant are above the average for this time of the year, normally a slow period, and, while neither too optimistic nor pessimistic, they expressed the belief that the business is holding its own.

Plant executives will attend the United States Pottery association meeting Wednesday at Congress Lake Country club, near Hartsville when counter-demands, to be presented to the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, will be considered.

According to the bargaining agreement in force between the two organizations, wage revisions can be asked by the manufacturers as well as by the brotherhood and the U. S. P. A. discussion Wednesday will include the matter of wages.

The 74 propositions adopted by the N. B. O. P. at its annual convention were presented to the manufacturers in printed form Monday for consideration at the U. S. P. A. meeting.

Increases for certain crafts and on a variety of types of piecework were asked by the brotherhood in the resolutions adopted at its convention. The actual percentage rise in payrolls which the 74 proposals would mean has not yet been figured but the increase would be substantial, the U. S. P. A. claims.

In addition to discussing the N. B. O. P. propositions and their own counter-demands, the manufacturers will set the date and place for the biennial conference of the U. S. P. A. labor committee and brotherhood representatives. The conference is expected to be called for mid-August in Atlantic City.

Wednesday's meeting will begin at 11 a. m. in the Congress Lake club house with W. H. Locke Anderson of East Liverpool, U. S. P. A. president, in charge.

Loses Fingers In Lisbon Accident

Miss Martina Vitale, 21, of East Chestnut st., Lisbon, was brought to Salem City hospital at 3:20 p. m. Monday after the tips of three fingers on her right hand had been amputated in an accident at the National Brass & Copper plant in Lisbon where she is employed.

The young woman was working on the crimping machine in the turning department of the plant when a guard rail gave way in attempting to save herself, her right hand became caught in the gears of the machine.

Hospital attaches described her condition today as being fair.

Astounds World by Spanning Ocean in "Crate"

Astounding the world by making a solo flight across the Atlantic in a $900 single-motored plane of 1929 vintage, Douglas Corrigan, 31-year-old flyer-mechanic from California, landed at Dublin, Ireland, after flying 3,100 miles in 28 hours 13 minutes. On taking off from Floyd Bennett field, he announced that he was returning to California but instead headed eastward. Corrigan's transatlantic flight followed a non-stop hop across the United States.

"MISTAKE" NETS CORRIGAN $2,000

Gets That Much for His Broadcast; Has Many Other Offers

(By Associated Press)
DUBLIN, July 19.—Douglas G. "Daredevil" Corrigan was $2,000 to the good today on that little "mistake" in direction which took his $900 plane across the Atlantic.

"The $2,000 I got for my broadcast to America last night will keep me in pocket money while I'm here," he said.

"But as soon as I can get steamer passage fixed up I am going home. I am trying to get a boat where my plane won't have to be dismantled."

"It Wasn't Much"
He acknowledged that "folks here still are tremendously excited about my trip, but after all it wasn't much. They've been very kind to me in not having me summoned for landing without an air-worthiness certificate."

The 31-year-old Californian who flew the "wrong way" crossed the Atlantic, set all England and Ireland talking and was proclaimed on two continents as a foolhardy hero, slept late in the guest bed of the American legation. He wore pajamas borrowed from American Minister John Cudahy.

"I want a nice long rest," he told Cudahy last night. "Don't wake me for a long time. I'll sleep through breakfast."

He had the matter of the legality of his landing to settle with Irish officials, but men with names like Corrigan and Cudahy are not likely to have trouble here getting over a technical difficulty when it comes.

Head of Shoe Firm Sees Improvement

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 19.—George F. Johnson, chairman of the board of directors of the Binghamton-Johnson shoe corporation, shoe manufacturers, informed the company's 20,000 employees today: "We are running out of the so-called recession into normal conditions."

"We are not expecting a boom," he said. "We do not want any more booms that make us all act foolish. We would like to have something like reasonably steady and normal conditions, and this, we feel, we can rely on for the balance of this year and perhaps well into next year."

Johnson announced a "decided improvement" in the concern's orders and said "last week's orders were the largest in number of dozens we have had in a year."

Casualty List Up In Refinery Fire

WELLSVILLE, N. Y., July 19.—Twenty-two firemen were slightly injured today as they made a desperate and nearly successful effort to blow out the disastrous Sinclair oil refinery fire with steam.

The new injuries, most of which were minor burns or scalds, swelled the casualty toll of the three-day fire to three dead and approximately 100 injured. Company officials estimated the loss at $1,000,000.

Only a smoldering, stubborn blaze remained in the ruins of the waxing plant today after engineers finally succeeded in putting the power plant of the $15,000,000 refinery back in commission.

TELLS SHERIFF HE SLEW FATHER

Kensington Man Said To Have Admitted Murder 20 Years Ago

CARROLLTON, July 19.—Sheriff John G. Kempthorne of Carroll county said Monday that Karl Bopp, 39-year-old Kensington farmer who is awaiting Carroll county grand jury action on a manslaughter charge in connection with the fatal shooting of his brother, Mike, 32, has confessed the 20-year-old slaying of his father in Germany.

Unable to Raise Bond
Karl has been unable to raise the $10,000 bond set by Judge Frank F. Cope and has been in jail here since a few hours after Mike died of a rifle bullet fired near Karl's home June 26.

The sheriff said Karl told him he had slain his father following an argument in 1918 at the Bopp farm in western Germany. Mike was the only other witness to the crime. Karl is said to have told the sheriff. The father's body was thrown into the Rhine river, Karl was quoted as saying. Karl said he was an army private at the time and was home on furlough.

According to Karl's version of his brother's death, Mike appeared at the former's home on the evening of June 26 but departed following an argument. A few hours later Karl heard his dog barking, he related, picked up a rifle and went to the door.

Accident, He Says
While peering into the darkness, Karl told authorities, his rifle was accidentally discharged. Hearing a man groan, he said he investigated and found his brother with a bullet in his chest.

Mike was dead when Karl and his wife arrived at a Minerva physician's office with the wounded man in their car.

Wives of the brothers told officers they had been under the impression that the father died in a German hospital during the war.

Pipe Actor's Voice To Hollywood Film

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 19.—The show went on, though Alan Mowbray was sick at home.

Equipped with earphones, Mowbray spoke his lines for a comedy scene being filmed yesterday at a studio 10 miles distant.

Sound engineers "piped" the ailing actor's voice to the set where Frederic March, Virginia Bruce and Patsy Kelly answered him in front of the camera.

Granted Parole

The state parole board today granted paroles to 41 Mansfield reformatory inmates. Included in this list is Oden McDole of Columbiana county, who will be released Oct. 15 to go to Pennsylvania.

WARM WELCOME IS SCHEDULED FOR CORRIGAN

And a Very Profitable One, Too, Judging By Varied Offers

U. S. GOVERNMENT WILL "FORGIVE"

Nothing Worse Than Mild Spanking Seen For Adventurer

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 19.—Douglas (who said jalopy?) Corrigan today faced a warm and probably profitable welcome home and nothing worse than a spanking out behind the hangar at the hands of a forgiving government.

For a trans-Atlantic flight violating all the rules, a daring, unpredictable ocean hop before a world now yawning over fliers who can let a robot do the heavy work and reach announced destinations on schedule, riches may be the reward if Corrigan will take them.

Policy of Forgiveness
From Denis Mulligan, head of the federal bureau of air commerce, on the official side, to the Irish-American societies of New York, on the sentimental, the flight so caught imagination that the policy was to forgive—and not forget so far as a welcome is concerned.

Corrigan promised interviewers in Ireland he would not attempt to backtrack his uncharted trail across the Atlantic, a route carefully traversed six previous times by aviators flying solo and mainly with elaborate instruments as aids—certainly in planes prettier than Corrigan's obsolete Curtiss Robin, 1929 model.

The mild burst of publicity that accompanied Corrigan's 28-hour nonstop flight from Long Beach, Calif., to New York July 9, a mere smattering of space on the eve of Howard Hughes takeoff round the world, brought several "feeler" offers to the flyer.

Now that he has completely captured the front pages, concrete offers of profit are piling up.

Offer of $25,000
A New York amusement park announced a $25,000 offer if Corrigan would christen his plane with its name.

Although Corrigan steadfastly assured the pop-eyed Irish populace that he thought all the time he was flying to California, that his compass worked backwards or something, he can't barter the federal bureau controlling aircraft.

He applied once before for permission to fly to Ireland and was refused. Friends at Roosevelt field disclosed that promptly thereafter

Salem Kiwanians Picnic Wednesday At Country Club

Salem Kiwanians will hold their annual picnic Wednesday afternoon at the country club.

A sports program is scheduled for the afternoon, with a softball game between teams picked from the club membership. A boat race between three "crews" will also be a highlight.

The program includes, in addition, balloon races, 50-yard dashes for men, women and girls, candy kites, scrambles for boys and girls, shoe scramble for boys, potato race for women, nail driving contest for women and various other events.

Picnic supper will be served at 6:30, followed by a program of entertainment in the club house.

John C. Litty is general chairman of the picnic committees.

CCC's July Quota Of 59 Is Completed

LISBON, July 19.—Completing the July enlistment quota of 59 for Columbiana county, 12 more boys reported at the army in Youngstown Friday morning and the required physical examination, entrained for Civilian Conservation Corps camps. The list, certified by H. A. Moore, CCC selecting agent, includes the following boys:

Vernon Guy, Lisbon; Wilford Rudy, Lisbon, R. D. 5; Arthur Lewis, Power Point; John Janosik, West Point; George Smith and Richard Chancey, East Liverpool; Bert Ehrhart, East End, East Liverpool; Robert Shannon, Salem; Paul Cantwell and Jesse Gray, East Palestine; Henry Farris, East Palestine, R. D. 1; and Edward Mac-kall, Negley.

Moore stated that another CCC enrollment is not expected before October.

Asks $10,000 Damage

LISBON, July 19.—Ivy Morgan of Glennmold today filed a $10,000 personal injury damage action in common pleas court here against Elmer E. Elford of Glennmold.

Royalty's Visit To France Stresses Military Alliance

Gives Notice Two Nations Stand Together; Behind-the-Scenes Conferences Scheduled

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, July 19.—France and Britain emphasized their diplomatic and military ties today with the formal visit of state by King George VI of England and his queen.

While a long schedule of public functions gave notice to the world that the two democracies stood together, there appeared an added significance in behind-the-scenes conferences planned among British and French statesmen.

Secretary, War Minister There
The British foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, is accompanying the royal party. Leslie Hore-Bell-sha, Britain's war minister, also will be here.

They will talk with Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, their attention upon Central Europe which once again is considered the danger spot of the continent.

This feeling centers about Czechoslovakia's proposed nationality statute. Its publication is expected this week, containing the concessions the Czech government is willing to make to its clamoring Sudeten German minority of 3,500,000.

The Spanish civil war, with efforts for a settlement with Italy in the Mediterranean, assumed almost equal importance in the talks.

Exchange Letters
It was understood a recent secret exchange of letters, between Premier Daladier and Premier Neville Chamberlain of Britain emphasized the general line of the conversation.

Warships As Escort
An escort of warships was provided to accompany the royal yacht into Boulogne harbor, and from Boulogne to Paris railroad police and gendarmes patrolled closed stations, guarded switches and rails for 160 miles.

From the Paris station, the processional route ran three miles to the ministry on the Quai D'Orsay. Five lines of troops, mobile guardsmen, police and reserve officers in civilian clothes—100,000 men in all—guarded the avenues.

The capital was ablaze with flags, bunting, flowers, and pictures of the king and queen as a setting for the series of brilliant ceremonies beginning tonight with a dinner and state reception at President Lebrun's Elysee palace.

9 BEFORE COURT ON INDICTMENTS

Attorney General Fights Attempts To Nullify Jury Findings

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, July 19.—Aids of Atty Gen. Herbert S. Duffy fought back today at attempts to nullify indictments involving 18 persons accused in a special grand jury's investigation of political campaign fund-raising.

Counsel for seven of the accused contended that the jury was impaneled last Nov. 22 at Gov. Martin L. Davey's direction to inquire into the parole system only, and had no authority to go into the matter of campaign contributions.

The jury charged the 18 with violations of civil service laws in connection with the assessment of state employees for money for the governor's third-term campaign fund.

Not Convicted
Will P. Stephenson and Frederic A. Cuff, assistant attorneys general, who handled the fund-raising investigation, said that the jury—although never dismissed—had no legal connection with the grand jury which conducted the parole probe.

Nine of the 11 persons named in indictments handed up last week pleaded innocent today before Common Pleas Judge Henry L. Scarlett.

Those indicted are Jesse Gilbert, assistant to the state liquor director; Miss Gertrude Fortune, state superintendent of charities; Edgar Brill, chief of the division of factory and building inspection; Will-

Freight Rates Big Factor In Report On Ohio Canal

Board of Army Engineers To Scrutinize Figures Before Action On Big Project

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 19.—Changing economic conditions as they affect transportation will determine the final form of a report of the board of army engineers on a projected canal from Lake Erie to the Ohio river.

Persons here who have studied the potential value of the project since it was authorized by congress subject to approval of the board said increased freight rates, more than anything else, would be a deciding factor.

To Tap Steel, Coal Areas
The project, estimated to cost ultimately nearly $180,000,000, would provide a water route for shipments from the great steel, coal and other industrial centers of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio.

Prisoners Kidnap Two Guards and a Deputy Warden

BALKED BY GUNS AT PRISON GATES

Victim of Stabbing Reported In Serious Condition

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, July 19.—An Ohio penitentiary guard was stabbed seriously today during a frustrated prison break in which one convict was shot and another badly beaten.

The prisoners tried a daring escape by kidnapping two guards and a deputy warden within the institution walls.

Stabbed in the abdomen, Guard Raymond T. Thornton was in a serious condition.

Physicians said that Thornton was "growing weaker and weaker" but that he had "a chance" to recover. Should he die, prison officials said both convicts would be charged with first degree murder.

Clyde Staup, 28, convicted Allen county robber, was shot in the groin and side. Charles Menges, 28, sentenced to a life term from Hamilton county for murder, was badly beaten and at first pretended that he was shot.

Menges, after receiving treatment in the hospital, was placed in solitary confinement. He was sentenced for slaying Sheriff's Deputy Dan Sauder during a gun battle as Menges was driving a stolen automobile.

Guard Elmer Callahan fired six shots as the two convicts approached the prison gates, menacing with knives Deputy Warden William Walker and Guards Sherman Riley and Fred Kaestner.

One of the prisoners put his arm around Walker's neck, but the deputy warden ducked and then Callahan opened fire.

Other guards, who had been warned in advance by an alert clerk in Walker's office, came rushing out of the guard room swinging clubs and thwarted the escape try.

Both of the prisoners were involved in an attempted break Dec. 7, 1936.

Staup was sentenced to the prison in June, 1934, and Menges in March, 1933. Staup had served terms in the boys' industrial school at Lancaster, the federal reformatory at Chillicothe and federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for automobile theft. Menges had served time at Plainfield and Pendleton, Ind., and Iowa, Mich.

They had been exercising in the prison yard, but refused to return to their cells.

Accosting Guard Riley with knives, they forced him to accompany them to the office of Deputy Warden August Ptak, but when they reached there, Ptak was absent.

Heading for Walker's office in the dining hall, they encountered Kaestner and forced him to accompany them.

Autonomy Is Asked By Slovakian Unit

A resolution approved by several thousand Slovaks of the Ohio valley, picnicking at Rock Springs park, Chester, W. Va., Saturday, demanding that the Czechoslovakian government insure an autonomous state to the Slovaks, has been dispatched to the Czechs' government abroad.

The resolution accused President Edouard Benes and Premier Milan Hodza of failing to fulfill the moral obligations of the Pittsburgh pact, signed 20 years ago when the republic was founded in that country by Thomas Masaryk, the first president.

It asked further that the Pittsburgh pact be embodied in the national constitution and the laws of the state of Slovakia within the republic. It was signed by executives of the Ohio Valley association, and was cabled to Benes.

Euclid Ave Youth Shot Accidentally

Richard Klyne, 18, of Euclid ave. was given first aid treatment at the Salem City hospital at 3:10 p. m. Monday for a bullet wound received while practicing shooting with a .22 calibre rifle on the outskirts of the city. He was discharged from the hospital after treatment.

Klyne had his gun pointed toward the ground, preparatory to tossing an object in the air, when the rifle accidentally discharged. The bullet lodged in his leg.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Two years after the outbreak of civil war in Spain, July 17, 1938, that considerable part of the world's population which sees both sides of the issue is on the verge of conceding an insurgent victory is inevitable.

It seems a physical impossibility for the loyalists to hold out against the side which has more men, more money and more equipment. This seems to be the judgment of Great Britain, which isn't in the habit of backing a loser.

At the same time, from a detached point of view—looking at the combatants as spectators—it is impossible not to feel admiration for the loyalists, who were supposed to fold up a week after the war started and still are resisting stoutly two years later.

Spain has not been static during these two momentous years. Both sides have been learning something. Both sides have been undergoing a soul shaking experience.

The insurgents, entangled with forces outside Spain which have aided them materially, would be less than natural if they did not have a new respect now for their opponents who have fought virtually unaided—a respect which, if shown when the war is over, might yet save Spain from the outside influences which threaten to engulf it.

AN ORDER TO FILL

Due to the improbability of a Supreme Court appointment being made before the close of the present year, there is no tension in the subject at present. It is possible to ruminate over the possibilities of an appointment well in advance of the event.

To maintain, or rather to reestablish, some sort of geographical balance in the court, the appointee should come from the west, which is represented at present only by Justice Butler.

Due to the President's diatribes against elderly justices, the appointee's age probably will be much less than that of the three great jurists of modern times when they were appointed—Chief Justice Hughes who was 67, the late Justice Holmes who was 62, and the late Justice Cardozo, who was 61.

It is unlikely the appointee will be a Republican, though there exists ample precedent for choosing a new justice from the opposition party. Whichever party the appointee supports, he will need to profess enthusiasm for the new deal method of government.

Thus, the specifications are for a middle aged man with more than ordinary prestige in the law, who is enthusiastic about the new deal and lives west of the Mississippi river. This may be a bigger order than the good five cent cigar which the late Chief Justice Marshall said the country needed.

HARMLESS FUN

They're off again—covering sheets of paper with figures showing what would happen if as many as ten or as few as five voters out of a hundred were to desert new deal candidates next November.

Aside from money lost on bad bets, this is a relatively harmless pastime. The only other possible damage it can do is to induce despondency over disappointment, as happened in 1936 when the late Literary Digest's calculations led so many astray.

It is noticeable that this year, the guessers who are guessing against the new deal are inclined to be cagey. Thus, Mark Sullivan, the anti-administration columnist, seems content to figure out what a five per cent disaffection of 1936 Democrat voters would do—give the Republicans 30 more seats, for a total of 120 in the new congress, as against 297 Democrats. A ten per cent shift would give them perhaps as many as 65 more seats.

But, as Mr. Sullivan points out, it's not what the Republicans gain so much as what new dealers lose that matters—a sage observation which shows the futility of trying to guess what's going to happen next Nov. 8, except the usual shootings in Kentucky, the usual election scandals in St. Louis, Philadelphia and Chicago, and the usual cries of "I was robbed" when the returns start to come in.

TRAVEL'S BROADENING

President Roosevelt, a good traveler, believes it is part of his job to get about the country as much as possible. When he returns from his current trip he will have covered at least 135,000 miles in his official capacity—nine times as many as the Hughes expedition covered in its breathless dash around the world.

"IT'S THE CORRIGANS WHO LEAD THE WAY"

By DEWITT MacKENZIE, Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

NEW YORK, July 19.—When young Douglas Corrigan poked his tousled red-head and laughing Irish face out of the window of his rebuilt flying contraption at the Dublin aviation field, he satisfied an overpowering personal ambition of long standing.

But he did far more. He took his place—most likely unwittingly—among the great inspirational forces of our age.

The Real Value
That is the real value of such breath-taking exploits, which often seem so foolhardy and uncalled for. Who could read of the courage of that dangerous, lonely flight without being a better man for having read?

A few scraps of chocolate and a bottle of water for food. No radio through which to call for help or ask for guidance. Too poor to buy proper aviation instruments—just using a jack-knife and a piece of string, so to speak.

Flying blind to glory. If we could check the world over we should find that already thousands of young people are thrilling with a Corrigan-inspired ambition to achieve great things.

Maybe they aren't interested in flying. That doesn't matter. The thing which counts is that they want to get ahead, and that they dare to try.

New York Perks Up

New York City was wallowing in heat and humidity and feeling pretty low when the adventurous Irishman landed on the green side of his ancestors—the land where they still believe in fairy tales, and why not?

With the first clash of Corrigan's exploit, however, the city came to its toes. Corrigan! Sure and there's a man for ye. The name shot from one to another in restaurants, in offices and on the street. People quit self-pity over the heat and stuck out their chests. They felt like work—like doing something worth while.

For more than a week his countrymen have been reading about the President's journey to the west coast. Their focus of interest has been the effect of what he had to say about various candidates in the primaries.

There is no immediate opportunity, unfortunately, to learn what Mr. Roosevelt may have learned from his travels. But knowledge is his purpose. Lack of first-hand information about what is going on out in the country is the traditional handicap of government heads.

Has Mr. Roosevelt learned, by any chance, that voters in 48 states prefer to make up their own minds about the qualifications of candidates running for congress—and that if the time ever comes when they don't it won't be necessary for a president to make a trip all the way from Washington to separate the sheep from the goats?

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, July 20

An extremely lively and enterprising day is read from the prevailing lunar transits, although it would be easy to bungle promising situations and sidetrack very expansive and propitious situations by indulgence in reckless, impulsive or tumultuous conduct. This might refer to personal indulgences or private complications that will jeopardize the financial status, credit or popularity. All pertanings to writings, publishing, advertising or promotions should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of promising conditions, with much business stirring, finances on the increase and a general state of progress and prosperity existing. But these might all be negative by personal indulgences, indiscretions, waywardness, impetuosity or strife.

A child born on this day may be talented, enterprising and well equipped for success. However, a tendency to an impetuous, turbulent, jealous and vindictive behavior may nullify its most promising opportunities.

In the Wake of New Jersey "Twister"

Striking with terrific force, a smashing gale of cyclonic velocity cut a five-mile swath through Monmouth County, N. J., ripping off roofs, toppling trees and scattering fishing craft. Pictured above is a scene along Rumson Road after passing of the 20-minute thunder-and-hail storm.

Road Opened

WAUKEGAN, Ill. — Motorists complained to Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle about the detours on highway 63. He sent deputies to awaken a 300-pound sow which had selected the road for her nap. A few miles farther along, the officers rounded up three calves frisking about unmindful of the horns of motorists.

Vitamin B Is Necessary
Part Of Food For Adults

WHEN OUR still new knowledge of the vitamins was still new, the idea became pretty general among practicing physicians that while it was necessary to see to it that certain vitamins were present in children's diets, the adult could pretty well get along without giving any thought to whether his diet had vitamins in it or not. A well-balanced diet of any adult, they said, contained enough vitamins anyway. Children's diet needed the addition of vitamins C and D, which prevented, respectively,

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

scurvy and rickets. This was proved by experience because on what seemed to be a well-balanced diet for a child, these diseases developed with great regularity.

Besides that, vitamins influence such things as growth and immunity, and hence are especially needed in childhood.

But there is a trend towards the idea that at least one vitamin is very necessary in adult life and middle age, and that perhaps for some reason the adult does not get enough of it. And that for this reason it should be added to the diet in concentrated form.

Adults Need B

The vitamin the adult needs is B. According to formal classifications, there are two B's probably the adult needs both of them. Vitamin B is being used to augment the diet in liver deficiency, in anemia, in gout, in arthritis, in some forms of heart trouble, for lack of stomach secretions, in neuritis and in loss of tone of the bowel.

It will be noticed that all of these conditions belong to what might be called the degenerative changes of middle age.

When one asks why there should be a vitamin B deficiency in middle age, the answers are several. In the first place, the chief source of vitamin B in the food is in yeast, whole wheat bread, cereals, liver and kidneys—the concentration of the vitamin being in the order named. Now it is a matter of ordinary observation that in middle age, people tend to give up eating cereal and bread and many dislike liver and kidneys so much they never eat them. So it is quite possible there is a normal dietary deficiency of the vitamins. Then stomach disorders will cut down the liver function falls off and as a consequence the vitamin is not absorbed or utilized in the body.

"CONTRABAND" by Dennis Wheatley

"And then?" snapped Gregory. "Go on, quick."

"I remained there till they had dragged Auntie struggling up the stairs, past me. Directly they'd gone I rushed down and out of the house by the back way. I hadn't understood then what Lord Gavin meant when he spoke of the police agents having been dealt with. Then I found them all in a—all in a heap—there in the driveway only fifty yards from the house. I heard the planes coming in as I stood there, feeling sick and faint, and saw through the trees that a lot of bright flames had been lighted on the lawn. I—I was so horrified at the sight of those dead men I don't know what I did next. I think my brain must have gone blank but I suppose I ran back here. The next thing I knew I was crouching in the corner shivering with terror when you came in and flashed your light on me."

"I wonder why they didn't lock you up too," Gregory said suddenly.

"She shook her head. 'I don't think they even knew I live here. Auntie got Lord Gavin's consent to my boarding with her when she took the place but he's so queer about her never having visitors we were afraid he might change his mind afterwards. That's why I've always kept out of his sight. I've been here very little until the last few days and I've never met any of them face to face.'"

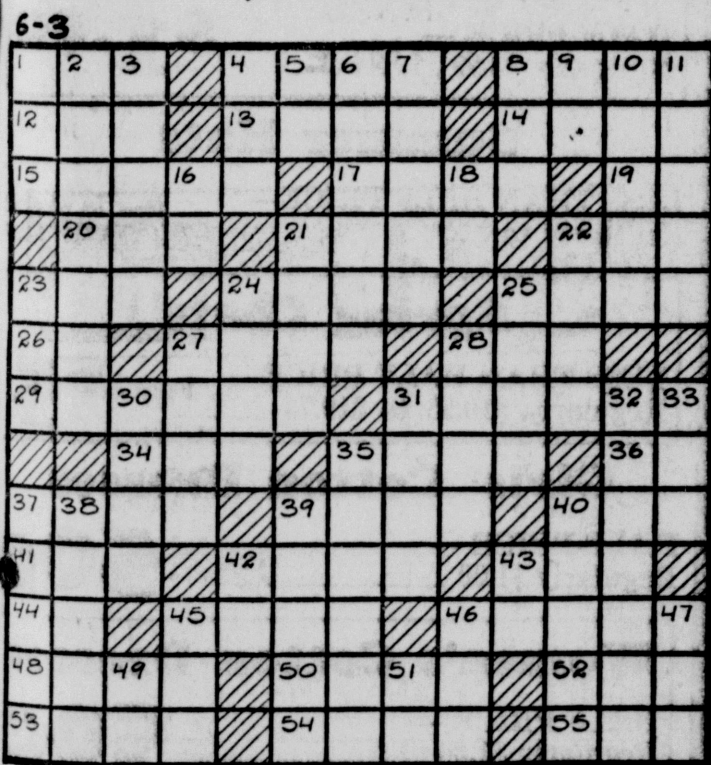

Gregory's sharp questions and Milly's stuttering replies had occupied no more than a couple of minutes, but time had slipped by while Gregory and Rudd were running round the plane, and later creeping round the back of the house. In spite of their well organized getaway from Hook Quay, over half an hour had elapsed since they left Wells staring after them as they raced off into the darkness.

It was now twenty minutes to one and, from Milly's report of what Lord Gavin had said when he came through the door about midnight, the planes had been due to arrive at a quarter past twelve. They must have been there then for over twenty minutes and then would be leaving any moment now.

From Gregory's glimpse of the lawn through the trees, before he had entered the house, he knew that fifty or sixty men at least were gathered there. He might find Gavin's plane and get Sabine out of it but someone was almost certain to spot him and the odds were hopelessly against his being able to get away safely. He almost wished that he had surrendered to the certainty of Sabine's arrest, given the police the information which he had beaten out of the limper and enabled Wells to concentrate the forces of the law here, but it was late to think of that now. Standing there, grim faced and silent, he racked his brains for some refuge to which he might take Sabine if only he could deal with the pilot of Gavin's plane; but every second was precious and he dared not wait to formulate any complicated plan. Suddenly he turned to Milly.

"The key of the Bell Tower! You know where it is?"

"She nodded toward the sideboard. 'In the drawer on the left. Auntie keeps all the keys in there.'"

Rudd wrenched the drawer open. Gregory shone his torch down into it and Milly snatched up a heavy old-fashioned key from among the rest.

"This is it."

"Right," said Gregory. "Rudd must come with me; I need him. We don't want you mixed up in the fighting but are you prepared to act like a little heroine?"

"I—I'll try," she stammered.

"Bless you! That's the spirit! Now this is what I want you to do. As they've been signalling from the Bell Tower the door of it is probably open already. You know the park and the path round the back from here, across the drive, up to the tower through the wood. That's well away from the lawn so it's unlikely you'll run into anyone. If you hear any of these people you can hide in the woods till they've gone past. I want you to get to the tower, see the door's open, and put this key into the lock on the inside—on the inside, remember. That's what's so important. Think you can do it? Gerry'll be mighty proud of you if you will."

That reference to Gerry Wells was just the psychological touch needed to give Milly renewed courage.

"All right," she said, throwing up her head.

"Well done!" Gregory squeezed her arm. "Directly you've got that key in the door you go among the trees and hide there until the trouble's over; get as far from the lawn as you can. Blessings on you my dear."

The three of them left the house together. Milly to skirt its back and make her way through the dark shrubberies; Gregory and Rudd together, past the museum buildings and the conservatories, into the grove which lay to its right front at the far end of which, they knew, lay the hangar that housed Lord Gavin's plane.

For tense moments they stumbled through the undergrowth, not daring to show a light, then emerged cautiously from behind the hangar into the open. Two hundred yards away, on the far side of the lawn, they could see the dark bulk of the Bell Tower rising from it. No lights shined at its steel mast now. Its purpose of guiding the planes in had already been served.

Gregory peered out beyond the angle of the hangar. Bright flames still lit the lawn. The planes reposed before them in an irregular row. One or two men, the pilots probably, stood near each but the majority were gathered in a solid chow on the gravel sweep before the house. At the open front door Lord Gavin's small hunched figure, supported by two sticks, was silhouetted against the bright light of the hall. He was evidently giving the foreign agitators, whom he had imported, his last instructions before they dispersed to spread anarchy in the great industrial areas.

His plane was already outside the hangar; it's nearest wing-tip no more than a dozen yards from the spot where Gregory crouched. For a second the wild thought entered his head of attempting to make off in it; but the men by the other planes were within easy range it seemed certain he would be shot down before he could scramble on board and get the machine into the air. Besides, he was not sure yet that Sabine was in the plane. If she were not he would have bungled things for good and all.

He turned to Rudd. "Got your pocket knife handy?" he asked in a quick whisper.

"Yes sir."

"Good. We'll need it to cut her free if she's there. Don't wait to be shot at but shoot first if they try to stop us. Ready now? Come on!"

Going down upon his hands and knees he came out into the open and crept swiftly toward the waiting plane. Now, he blessed the friendly darkness and the clouds that hung, low and threatening, obscuring the stars. The nearest men visible in the flickering light from the flames were a good fifty yards away.

With a last crouching sprint Gregory reached the body of the plane and wrenched open the door. The light on the far side of it came through the windows sufficiently for him to see the interior of the cabin. A long bundle lay in the after part of it behind the two rear seats. It was Sabine, a cloth wound round her face, her arms and ankles lashed with rough cords and a couple of weighty iron bars fastened to her feet; trussed ready for Gavin's men to haul into the sea once they were well away over the Channel.

Swiftly but cautiously Gregory and Rudd drew her limp body out and laid it on the grass. Rudd's knife bit into the cords. Gregory unsmiled her face, pressing his hand lightly over her mouth to prevent her screaming before she realized that it was he who was manhandling her.

Another moment and they had her on her feet, limp and half dazed, supported between them.

"Think you can run, my sweet?" Gregory said softly.

"She flung one arm round his neck. "Those cords, they almost stopped my circulation," she whispered, "wait. I will be better in a minute."

"Hang on to her," Gregory breathed, removing her arm from his neck and gently passing her to Rudd. Then he went down on his knees again and, creeping forward a little, peered under the nose of the plane. Its pilot, who had been hidden by the bulk of the machine before, was standing within seven yards, his back turned, looking toward the house. A murmur came from the gravel drive and then the clenching feet. Lord Gavin had finished his address to the red servants of evil and the crowd in front of the doorway was breaking up.

There was not an instant to lose. Gregory dived back behind the plane and spoke to Rudd. "They're coming; you'll have to carry her. Fireman's lift and gun in your right hand. Too late to make a detour; we'll have to chance a dash across the open."

Rudd stooped and threw Sabine across his strong shoulders as though she had been an infant. Without a word he plunged forward straight for the Bell Tower. Gregory followed, walking swiftly backwards, ready to fire instantly they were spotted and covering Rudd's retreat.

Rudd had traversed sixty yards before they were seen; then a cry went up from one of the men by the flames. In a second Gavin's pilot swung round with a drawn sword in his hand. He fired from his hip and the bullet sang past Gregory's head; but Gregory had had him marked already. His pistol cracked, the man's knees gave under him, and he crashed forward on his face.

Philippine Volcano Goes on a Rampage

For the first time in ten years, Mount Mayon, active volcano on the island of Luzon, in the Philippines, went into violent action, with the results depicted above. For days the mountain rumbled and groaned, spewing smoke, flames and ashes at intervals. Thousands fled, fearing a duplication of the catastrophe of 1814, when an eruption brought death to 1,200. Little material damage was done. One man died of fright, while another went insane.

did so a series of sharp coughs told him they were firing at him with pistols which had mauler silencers attached. Suddenly he sprinted forward, covered fifty yards before he stopped, swung round, and fired again. One of the men by the flames sagged sideways with a scream.

The lawn was full of racing figures now. The scattered group by the terrace was surging forward in a long irregular wave. Lord Gavin still stood on the doorstep, waving one of his sticks and shouting something which Gregory could not catch. Rudd had already covered two thirds of the way to the Bell Tower when Sabine cried: "Put me down! I can manage now!"

He slipped her from his shoulder. She stood rocking for a moment then began to stagger forward while he turned and fired at the nearest of the running men. The man ran on, Rudd fired again.

The fellow spun round and fell. Rudd's intervention gave Gregory another chance. He bounded forward. Both of them fired, twice into the mass of shouting figures that were thundering across the grass then they turned and ran on together.

A bullet ploughed up the ground at Gregory's feet, another whistled past his ear, a third hit the gun in Rudd's hand knocking it out of his grasp.

Gregory halted and emptied the remaining contents of his automatic into the oncoming mob. Rudd lurched forward, grabbed up his pistol, and dashed on again. Next instant he came up with Sabine. She was now no more than twenty yards from the Bell Tower.

Jamming his now useless automatic into his pocket, Gregory pounded up beside them. Each caught Sabine by an arm and half carried, half dragged her toward their goal.

"Come on! Come on!" shrielled a treble voice and Milly's form loomed up by the Tower. She was holding the door wide open for them.

"Good God!" gasped Gregory as they dashed through the entrance "Why didn't you hide as I told you to?"

She shook her head. "I had to stay and help if I could." Then she flung her frail weight against the heavy door and banged it to. Rudd grabbed the key and turned it in the lock.

Dayton Lads Try Out Suits to a Depth of Thirty Feet

(By Associated Press)

DAYTON, July 19.—Tops from two discarded metal water tanks have become for Robert Baker, 20, and Ross Reichart, 18, a means of viewing underwater wonders not normally seen by lads of their age.

The two 1937 graduates of Co-Operative High school here fashioned headpieces for home-made diving suits from the tanks, inserting tiny glass windows and adding garden hose for an air intake.

Canvas and rubber form the body of the suits which are weighted with more than 40 pounds of lead. Two automobile tire pumps and an auxiliary tank provide air.

While the boys admit their creations are not as finished as suits used by professional divers, they feel absolutely safe in them. On a recent test they submerged to a depth of 30 feet, where they said they began to notice the pressure slightly, but Baker asserted they could go to a much greater depth in safety.

The elder member of the diving pair said they were seriously considering the inauguration of a "recovery service" for persons desiring the return of articles lost in the various rivers and lakes around Dayton.

"You never can tell what you might find at the bottom of a river or lake," chimed in his partner.

The boys said that during an excursion in the Miami river, fish apparently were oblivious to their under-water operations.

"They just swam right past our faces and all around us as unconcerned as can be," Baker asserted.

The evening was spent informally and a shower of gifts was presented Mrs. Gilbert after the games. A lunch was served by the hostess. Guests were present from Warren, Salem, Winona, Damascus and North Georgetown.

Today's Pattern

BOLERO TWOSOME
Pattern 4839

The very spirit of summer—in this new little frock with its own bolero! Mothers can make it up swiftly in a few short mornings—and they won't stop at one outfit either, because Pattern 4839 is just as appropriate for a Back-to-School outfit as it is for summer wear.

The bolero may match or contrast, and top other outfits too—and how the children will adore it, since it's cut just like a grown-up's style. The sprightly dress will make the kiddies forget the heat. Look how the cap sleeves are cut in one with the bodice to simplify stitching—how few are the seams in that love of a high-waisted skirt—how little trimming is needed. Step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Pattern 4839 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, dress and pantie, takes 2 yards 36 inch fabric, and 1 1/2 yards ruffling; bolero, 1/2 yard 36 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Do you want to be a style leader this summer? Then write at once for the Anne ADAMS SUMMER PATTERN BOOK. It's filled with hints on how to be cooler and smarter—how to look younger, slimmer, more glamorous—how to be correctly dressed for every summer setting, whether sunlit or moonlit. Don't delay in sending for this fascinating book, and make yourself some striking new summer clothes. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. PRICE OF PATTERN FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Suspect In Holdup Faces Court Today

LISBON, July 19.—A suspect questioned at the sheriff's office in connection with the holdup attempt at the East Palestine Eagles' club May 16, was to appear before Justice M. K. Zimmerman this afternoon. The sheriff's office would not divulge information concerning action to be taken there.

The suspect was arrested recently in Youngstown and turned over to Columbiana county authorities.

Two men escaped in the East Palestine holdup attempt after Mike Lepushansky and John Yourko were shot down by officers who had hidden in the lodge home, awaiting the holdup gang. The police had been tipped off.

FLIER CORRIGAN LAUDED BY PAL

"No Show-off about Him", Says Mechanic Who Helped Him

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Douglas Corrigan is a "swell pilot", in the opinion of Larry Conner mechanic who helped him remodel the ancient ship in which he crossed the Atlantic.

"There's no show off about him", Conner said today. "No bragging. Just quiet determination. I'm not surprised that he made it."

"Nice and quiet" was the way J. J. Adams, who had given Corrigan post-graduate flying instruction, described his pupil.

"He liked to experiment on his own hook," said Adams. "I never thought he'd just up and go to Europe though."

Corrigan's "absent mindedness" which landed him in Ireland instead of California was evidenced at the Northrop aircraft plant, where he was discharged recently, after repeated warnings, because he failed to obtain a social security number, "sheer absentmindedness," friends there said.

Conner said the "Corrigan clipper", as the airport men termed it, was purchased in New York in 1933 for $310.

"Why it took Doug 13 days to fly the ship back," Conner recalled. "He landed in cow pastures along the route and had to work on the crate at night so he could fly it the next day."

Conner told how they had remodeled the ship, Corrigan trading for two old Wright engines, assembling one power plant from the best parts in both.

"He used to take us up at night and we'd test-fly the clipper over San Diego, landing at an abandoned airport on Camp Kearny Mesa with the aid of a flashlight."

"He made six flights across the country to practice the navigation principles he had been studying at home in books."

"To save money for this flight, he would eat half a pean roll and drink half a bottle of milk for breakfast, and then finish it off for supper."

"No, I'm not surprised that he made it."

SENATE QUIZZES STRIKE FIGURES

Committee Hears Testimony On Canton Fighting In 1935

WASHINGTON, July 19.—A senate committee inquired today into activities of citizens' organizations during a 1935 strike in the Berger Manufacturing company steel plant at Canton, O.

Chairman LaFollette (Pro-Wis.) said the civil liberties committee wanted to develop in detail the incidents of the strike as indicating a pattern which he asserted the Republic Steel corporation followed in the 1937 "little steel" strike.

The committee heard yesterday dramatic testimony of street fighting between union pickets and Berger company officials and guards. One witness said the scrap involved Charles M. White, operating vice president of Republic Steel, which controls the Berger company.

Paul L. Hamilton, a railroad brakeman who formerly was a Canton city bus driver, said he "peeled" the ruddy-faced steel executive on the chin and knocked him down. White, he declared, had acted insolently in ordering pickets off the company property.

Replying curtly a few minutes later, White said Hamilton struck him in the back of the neck while he was escorting Clarence Hale, another picket, off the Berger property.

Hale testified he had been pushed to the ground by White and subsequently had been hit on the head with a blackjack. He said he was not employed by the Berger company, but was at the picket line for "educational" reasons—to learn how to prevent disturbances at another steel plant where he is employed.

Hale quoted White as having told the pickets: "You lazy bums, you don't want to work. All you are looking for is trouble and you are going to get it."

White denied this assertion. He also objected to opposing witnesses describing as "thugs" the company's 123 guards during the strike.

"Most of the guards are married men with families and are respected citizens," White said. "More so than some of the people I think I could reach." As he spoke, he turned toward Hamilton, Hale and others sitting across the table.

This brought an admonition from Senator LaFollette, only committeeman present, to omit personalities.

LaFollette inquired extensively into the labor policies of the Republic corporation. He contended the company changed its course in 1934 by refusing to renew contracts with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, an AFL affiliate. This was the union which called the Canton strike.

White contended, on the other hand, that the failure to sign the contracts was caused by the company's belief its employees would be represented better in company unions not controlled by "outsiders."

Bitten By Rat

ALLIANCE, July 19.—First aid treatment was given at City hospital here at 6:45 p. m. Sunday to Edward Hahn, Jr., six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hahn, Sr., of 2311 S. Freedom ave. The child was bitten by a rat while playing near his home.

Government Forces' Retreat Is Cut Off By Suicide Squads

HENDAYE, France.—(At the Spanish Frontier)—July 19.—Picked "suicide squads" fought a desperate delaying action through the Espina mountains today to cover the retreat of the main body of the Spanish government army to new defense lines before Valencia.

Two insurgent armies, advancing down either side of the main highway from Teruel, were crushing the government's fortifications between them.

As a result of the rearguard action, however, the retreat to a new line of hasty fortifications before Viver, 34 miles northwest of Valencia, was being effected without serious losses.

The main threat to the government army of more than 150,000 came farther east, where two columns of Gen. Garcia Valino's Navarrese troops menaced Segorbe, an ancient town about 20 miles from Sagunto where the Teruel-Mediterranean highway joins the main coastal road leading to Valencia.

The fall of Segorbe, with the main government army still to the northwest at Viver, virtually would trap the flower of Gen. Jose Mijang's troops.

Both the highway and the railroad already were under the fire of insurgent Gen. Francisco Franco's long-range artillery.

PLANES LAUNCH FIERCE ATTACK

Japanese Airships Bomb Tri-City Area With Heavy Damage

HANKOW, July 19.—Thirty-three Japanese warplanes made the most intensive attack of the war today in the tri-city area about Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang.

The bombardment was pointed at Wuchang and Hanyang, and huge columns of dark smoke gave evidence of fires and material damage that resulted.

The attackers timed their arrival to coincide with the return to their Hankow base of heavy Chinese bombers at daybreak. In three separate flights, the Japanese bombers dropped their cargo as Japanese attack planes power-dived from the clouds, spattering machine-gun bullets and scattered small bombs.

Sharp guerrilla fighting in industrial Pootung, across the Whangpoo river from Shanghai, has cost perhaps 600 dead the past four days.

The Pootung area had not been a scene of major fighting since the Japanese offense to capture Shanghai last August and September.

Chinese, who finally withdrew, listed 200 Japanese casualties, 100 dead among the attacking irregulars, and 300 peasants killed accidentally or by Japanese upon suspicion of guerrilla activity.

BOOST IN BANK LOANS IS ASKED

Financial Aid for Industry Is Asked By RFC Chief

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The morning mail brought to the nation's bankers today a terse RFC appeal to lend more money to business.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC wrote officials of all state and national banks that bank participation in RFC loans to industry was insufficient, and added:

"If banking is to remain in private hands it must meet the credit needs of the country."

He directed attention to the number of bills introduced in the last session of congress providing further extension of government credit to business.

"You bankers know that with our great abundance of banking resources it should not be necessary for the government to lend to private industry. You should also know that the government will be forced to lend so long as there is a substantial demand for legitimate credit which is not being met," he said.

The federal reserve board estimates that banks have $3,150,000,000 idle and lendable funds. Commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of banks in 191 leading cities increased $5,000,000 in the week ending July 13, the board reported. The increase is the second gain in three weeks, but prior to that there had been decreases for 21 weeks.

From February to July 15, Jones said, the RFC authorized 2,601 business and industrial loans totaling $85,344,788. Banks participated in only 302 of these loans aggregating $11,483,444, a figure which Jones termed inadequate.

Car Used In Theft At Youngstown Is Located By Police

CLEVELAND, July 19.—Detective Sgt. James McDonald said today a green sedan used in the robbery of the Palace grill in Youngstown last week was found today, parked on an east side street.

McDonald said a 16-gauge shotgun, a box of shotgun shells and a box of shells for a .38 calibre revolver were found in the car, an envelope containing Pennsylvania license plates had the name "King" written on the outside.

Joseph King, ex-convict, was burned to death yesterday in an apartment fire approximately five blocks from the point where the car was found. Detective Chief William Reed of Youngstown named King yesterday as a suspect in the Youngstown robbery.

Hughes Adds New Lustre to Unusual Career

Numerous previous ventures of Howard Hughes, millionaire sportsman, have been no less spectacular than his flight around the world. At the age of 18, on the death of his father, he fell heir to a considerable fortune, enabling him to indulge in his passion of flying. In 1936 he was awarded the Harmon trophy, emblematic of the outstanding aviation achievement of the year. He is the holder of the coast-to-coast non-stop speed record of 7 hours 28 minutes. He has also made his name as a movie producer, turning out such smash hits as "Hell's Angels" and "Two Arabian Knights". One of the most eligible men in Hollywood, Hughes is frequently escort to film celebrities, his current favorite being Katharine Hepburn, whom he called on in her Connecticut home prior to setting off.

Restoration of Rheims Cathedral Completed

Sixteen years' work of restoring shattered Rheims cathedral was completed this week and signalized by impressive ceremonies. Millions of dollars went into repairing the damage caused by German shells during the World War. When the Armistice was signed in 1918, it was believed impossible that the magnificent structure could ever be restored to its former glory. Huge gaps in the roof, tons of debris in the interior and blasted columns and buttresses made the task a formidable one. But ample funds and careful workmanship accomplished the task and today Rheims cathedral is once more the architectural gem it was before the war, a classic example of the Gothic style.

Post Victories In Class A Softball Contests At Centennial

The Ohio Edison, champion of the Class A Softball league's second round, held a small edge in the senior circuit's fourth round race today following its 4 to 1 victory over the Salem News at Centennial park last evening.

The victory was the Ohio Edison's second in as many fourth round games. The only other teams unbeaten thus far in the fourth round are the Old Timers and Mullins Foremen, each of whom have won only one game.

Three runs in the second inning and one in the third gave the Ohio Edison its victory. The News tossed in seven errors to aid the O. E. team in scoring.

Pitcher Ward of the Ohio Edison played an important role in his team's victory, blanking the News for six frames after allowing one run in the first. He allowed only five hits.

George McFeely hurled fine ball in working the distance on the mound for the News, but poor support cost him a victory. McFeely granted seven hits.

The Tradesmen posted its first victory of the fourth round and dropped Demings from the unbeaten class in the other Class A game, handing the Pumpmakers an 11 to 1 defeat.

The Tradesmen laid on the offerings of Pitcher Phillips of the Pumpmakers for 15 hits to score in every inning but the sixth. The Deming line tallied its lone marker in the sixth frame.

McQuiston, pitching for the Tradesmen, held Demings to three safe blows.

The Emmanuel Lutherans and Methodists, two of the three leaders in the Class B league's third round race, clashed last evening with the Emmanuel coming out on top, 5 to 0.

The Emmanuel tallied one run in the second and four markers in the sixth on four hits and the assistance of four Methodist errors. The M. E. team outbatted the Emmanuel, collecting five safe blows.

The Baptists chalked up a win in the other Class B contest, rallying in the fourth and fifth frames to defeat the Presbyterians, 13 to 6.

The Presbyterians were trailing by only one run when the Baptists tallied once in the fourth frame and five times in the fifth to sew up the victory.

NEGRO FIGHTER SAYS HE'LL K.O. AMBERS, AUG. 10

Henry Armstrong Claims He Will Annex Lightweight Title

NEW YORK, July 19. — Every time you look up Henry Armstrong is getting ready to knock some fellow's head off. This time it is Lou Ambers and the Los Angeles Negro goes so far as to predict he'll beat out the king of lightweights.

The buzz-saw is making his first appearance here since he battered Barney Ross into a bleeding, helpless pulp and added the welterweight championship to his featherweight crown. He starts training Wednesday.

"I saw him fight this Jimmy Vaughn out in Los Angeles," said Henry, "and I think maybe he's gone back. He didn't lick Vaughn until Vaughn got tired and Jimmy hit him a couple of licks that really rocked him."

"New that's different than he was," continued the hammer. "Remember him against Montez that time indoors. Pedro hit him with everything but the water bucket one round and he came back in the last rounds and won a draw. Then he took some more from Pedro, outdoors, and licked him."

The inference was that Ambers, after five years of fighting on or around the top, has passed his peak. But Henry was not too confident, that was the answer. "I'm not too sure," he said, "all I can say is if he doesn't get better, I'll drop him."

This was an about face for Henry. Early last spring when he and Harry Armstrong, his trainer, were plotting their triple killing of the welterweight, lightweight and featherweight titles, they were more worried over Ambers than Ross.

Henry weighs 140, which is six and a half pounds more than he weighed for Ross and seven more than he expects to weigh for Ambers, Aug. 10. Before the Ross massacre he proclaimed roundly that 133 or thereabouts was his best fighting weight and demonstrated by giving the Chicagoan a terrific going over.

LAKERS BEATEN BY WATERFORD
Suffer First Defeat In Youngstown Semi-Pro Tournament

Losing to New Waterford, 5 to 4, in extra-innings, Lake Placencia suffered its first defeat in the Youngstown district semi-pro baseball tournament at Idora park last night.

The set-back does not eliminate the Lakers from the tournament. Teams which reach the semi-finals of the district competition must lose two games before dropping out of the running.

A fielding error enabled New Waterford to tally one run in the 12th inning to gain the victory after the game had been extended into overtime when the score was tied at 4-4 at the end of the regular nine innings.

The victory moved New Waterford into the finals of the tournament. Placencia will meet the loser of tonight's other semi-final contest, while New Waterford will face the winner.

Don Hannan turned in a splendid mound performance for the Lakers, despite dropping the decision due to poor support from his mates. Hannan fanned 15 New Waterford batters and gave up only seven hits in 12 innings of mound work.

Scouts watching the various teams play in the district tournament have signed three of Placencia's pitchers today. Wilks Schopfer has been signed with the Chicago team of the Mid-Atlantic league, while Orrie Snyder and Hannan have been placed under contract by the Detroit Tigers of the American league.

Sinclairs Defeat Perry St. Team In Doubleheader Program

The Shasteen Sinclair softball team came out on top in both ends of a double-header with the Perry Indians yesterday, winning the first game, 10 to 5, and blanking the Indians in the second contest, 5 to 0.

The Sinclairs, formerly the Salem Bulldogs, slapped out 12 hits in the first game, three in the second, two in the third and one in the fifth. Kachner, Nocera, Wright and Drakulich led the hitting.

Two runs in the first frame and three in the third gave the Sinclairs the victory in the second contest. Pitcher Wright of the Shasteen team held the Indians to two hits.

PIRATES FACE CRUCIAL TEST

Plenty of Trouble Seen Ahead for Pittsburgh Baseball Club

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Plenty of trouble still will loom ahead for the Pirates during the remainder of their present stay at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh, following the completion of the important series with the New York Giants.

The Pirates and Bees are coming for four games each, and there will be a bargain double-header in each series. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 19, 20 and 21, will find the Pirates battling with the Bees, with a double-header scheduled for Wednesday at 1:45 p. m. Eastern daylight saving time.

The Bees will follow for a three-day visit on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, a double-header being billed for Sunday, July 24, with the first event starting at 2 o'clock, daylight saving time. Both the Quakers and the Bostonians are chronic trouble-makers for the Pirates, and Pie Traynor's men will have to keep going at top speed to escape a setback.

Following an exhibition game in Warren, Pa., on Monday, July 25, as the feature event of Honus Wagner day there, the Bees will make their third swing of the year around the east. Three games in Philadelphia will be followed by four in Brooklyn, four in Boston and three in New York.

An exhibition game is booked for Aug. 1 in Springfield, Mass., against the Milton Bradley Toy-makers for the benefit of the Springfield Shriner's hospital for crippled children.

On Monday, Aug. 8, before returning to Forbes field for a series with the Cardinals, the Pirates will appear in McKeesport in another big charity game. They are to play the All-Stars of the City league there.

FREIGHT RATES CANAL FACTOR

Engineers to Study Figures Before Making Report

Lakes and other water routes.

No Comment on Route.

Engineers, while saying they understood the board's report on the canal development was favorable, declined to comment on which of four proposed routes would be selected. They said the board's recommendation was subject to final action by congress and left to that body the matter of settling the issue.

Whether there was a disposition to reconsider proposed routes was not learned, although the board customarily follows the recommendations of district and division engineers on such matters.

Prior to injection of the rail freight question, the board had completed action on its report, engineers said.

The district and division engineers' report recommended the Pittsburgh-Ashtabula route through the Beaver, Mahoning and Grand rivers to a lake harbor on Wheeler creek near Ashtabula.

The four other proposed routes were: Portsmouth to Sandusky, Cincinnati to Toledo, and the Allegheny river-French creek route.

DETROIT FETES AUTO MAGNATE

City Called On to Honor Henry Ford With Celebration, July 30

DETROIT—The young and old of Detroit and Michigan will join with Henry Ford on July 30 to help him celebrate his 75th birthday anniversary.

A day-long program is being prepared by Mayor Richard Reading and a citizens committee to pay homage to the man who has contributed more than any other person toward building the city and state into the foremost automobile manufacturing center in the world.

A proclamation setting the birth date aside as Henry Ford day has been issued by the mayor.

"The 75th birthday of Henry Ford is rightly an occasion for rejoicing on the part of all citizens of Detroit," Reading declared.

"In their behalf, it gives me great pleasure to express my appreciation and cordial wishes to a man who means so much to all of us."

Wide Tribute Asked
 "It has been our privilege to enjoy the benefits that have sprung from Henry Ford's achievements. The city which has been so instrumental in building has been a happy home for us. The productive age which he helped so greatly to perfect has enriched our lives in countless ways. We are thankful to have had a share in the manifold gains made possible by his genius. I call on all citizens to join in paying tribute to a man whom all the world unites in honoring."

From all parts of the state, civic leaders volunteered to join Detroit in making the anniversary celebration a day of joyous celebration in all-Michigan affairs.

Dozens of communities have notified Mayor Reading's committee that they intend to send their representatives to pay homage to Ford.

Radio facilities will help to make the tribute worldwide. The committee reported that plans were being made to bring congratulatory messages to Ford from civic, industrial and political leaders all over the world.

A morning and evening convocation is on the anniversary program. Nearly 10,000 persons will pack the State Fair Coliseum, where 8,000 school children recently staged a show that includes a circus performance, singing of patriotic songs, and a royal salute to the guest of honor.

Banquet for 1,800
 In the evening a banquet will be attended by 1,800 persons, most of them old-time friends and associates of the automobile manufacturer.

Toastmaster will be Alex Dow, president of the Detroit Edison Company, who once was Ford's boss. Speakers will include W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor Company; William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corporation, who once worked for Ford; Edgar A. Guest, poet; Mayor Reading and others.

Although Ford himself is not scheduled as a speaker, the committee announced he would make a few brief remarks.
 Two gifts will be presented Ford as birthday tokens. The nature of the gifts will remain a secret until their presentation. One will be given to Ford during the morning program as the children sing "Happy Birthday to You" and the other will go to Ford at the close of the banquet.

Ford was born on July 30, 1863, on a Wayne county homestead several miles from Detroit. The site of his original home is only a short distance from the vast River Rouge automobile plant he constructed when the Ford automobile was the world's biggest seller.

"AP" 90 TODAY, REVIEW RECORD

47 Member Newspapers In Ohio Join In Observance

This year marks the 45th anniversary of the founding of The Associated Press as a non-profit, cooperative association. The present AP was organized under New York State laws in 1900.

The association is exclusively entitled to the local news in member papers, so that each member also is a reporter for the Associated Press. Aside from these, the association has its own reporters and editors in each bureau, working with news very much as do reporters and editors of newspapers.

In addition to its great network of more than 285,000 miles of leased news wires, the Associated Press operates wirephoto, by means of which news photos are sent with telegraphic speed over a circuit 10,000 miles long.

Through its feature and news photo service, the Associated Press also supplies subscribers with news pictures, feature stories, comic strips and cartoons.

The Associated Press foreign service is managed by Americans abroad who are exclusively in its employ. Practically its entire volume is from original Associated Press sources, although it has available the news of leading news associations of other countries.

In every capital of the world, in all the states of the union, AP bureaus are maintained. The simple logo (AP) or the full name—at the start of all Associated Press stories mean that the world-wide facilities of the organization are utilized to serve 35,000,000 newspaper readers in this country alone.

STOCKS MOUNT ON BROAD FRONT

Profit-Taking Seen At Finish, But Net Gains Are Substantial

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Stocks zoomed upward in today's market with gains of 1 to more than 4 points putting leaders at new tops since last October.

Profit taking cut down top marks at the last, but favorites were well in front at the sound of the final gong.

Resumption of the mid-year "boom" on the broadcast scale of the year today was a further response, brokers said, to the much brighter prospects for business recovery as exemplified by the brisk upturn in steel mill operations, building construction and retail spending, in addition to signs of convalescence from many other recently lagging lines of industry.

The feverish run-up resulted in the largest volume for about nine months, transfers approximating 2,900,000 shares.

Prominent stocks on the upswing were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Oliver Farm, Kennecott, American Smelting, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Standard Oil of N. J., Texas Corp., Westinghouse, Du Pont, General Electric, Philip Morris and Loew's.

Rail bonds led the loans market on forward jaunt. Commodities generally exhibited strength, although grains were a bit mixed. Rubber and hide futures were in demand. Wheat at Chicago was up 1/4 to 3/4 of a cent a bushel and corn off 1/4 to 1/2. Cotton, near the finish, was up about 50 cents a bale.

Near mid-afternoon the principal foreign currencies were comparably heavy. Sterling was off 1/4 of a cent at 44.91 and the French franc was 105.16 of a cent lower at 27.6 cents.

British Medics Hail Victory In Test Legislation

VALENCIA, July 19.—A thousand-pound bomb hit the British merchantman Standand in Valencia harbor today, setting her afire.

Her crew and two non-intervention observers had close escape from death or injury. The fire, confined to the vessel's decks, soon was extinguished.

It was the first bombing of a British ship in recent weeks, a lull in such attacks in Spanish waters having followed vigorous protests to Gen. Francisco Franco, leader of insurgent Spain.

The observers aboard the vessel were an Italian and a Netherlands. Five planes made the raid. Eight Spanish workers were killed as their heavy bombs plunged into the dock area.

The insurgents had given British ships in Spanish government ports a rest of nearly a month after it was believed that Prime Minister Chamberlain had put pressure on Premier Mussolini of Italy, Franco's friend, to have the raids stopped.

Laws Discussed

CLEVELAND, July 19.—The national conference of commissioners on uniform state laws, American Bar association unit, considered today as emergency measures proposed legislation to be presented to the various state legislatures on real estate mortgages, insurance regulation, survival of tort actions, death by wrongful act, and house-trailer regulation.

Worker Is Killed

EAST LIVERPOOL, July 19.—Joseph Kolodziel, 28, laborer, was killed yesterday when he fell head-first into a concrete clay bin while pushing a conveyor at the Taylor Smith & Taylor company's pottery in Chester, W. Va.

"MISTAKE" NETS CORRIGAN $2,000

Gets That Much for His Broadcast; Has Many Other Offers

cerns a flight like Corrigan's to Dublin.

Plenty of Clothes
 He won't have to worry about clothes. Admirable tailors already have sent the daring aviator two new outfits, free.

He had offers of contracts, too, although he had been here less than a day, but it was understood he turned them all down with the statement, "I prefer to be footloose while I am here and won't sign anything."

Footloose and fancy free, he is staying in Dublin a day or two without planning for the future.

The "crate" that took him the 3,150 miles from New York to Dublin's Baldonnell airfield between 4:17 a. m. Sunday and 9:30 a. m. Monday was locked up at Baldonnell to safeguard it from souvenir hunters.

Under the air navigation pact, American fliers are permitted to land in Eire on unscheduled flights if their passports are in order. But Corrigan did not bring a passport. Such a document is not needed to fly from New York to California, as Corrigan insisted he thought he was doing until he sighted Irish shores.

"Detained" Technically

Technically Corrigan was "detained" today pending an examination of credentials and communication with the United States government. But little trouble was expected because of the unorthodox flight.

Newspapers burst into praise. The Irish News said: "Corrigan's feat without wireless, weather reports, maps or adequate instruments leaves us almost speechless with amazement."

"When the initial shock is over, the hand of everyone will be lifted to salute this intrepid adventurer with an Irish name."

9 BEFORE COURT ON INDICTMENTS

Attorney General Fights Attempts To Nullify Jury Findings

William Alexander, state liquor store supervisor; Milton U. Hain, assistant liquor store supervisor; Frank C. Hahn, liquor department controller.

Charles H. Hubbell, auditor-accountant in the unemployment compensation commission; Nora Halter of the conservation division; Louis Lieb of the state employment service; J. R. Burke, chief engineer of the bureau of bridges in the highway department, and Arnold F. Reiter, department of industrial relations statistician. Hubbell and Lieb will be arraigned Monday. The nine were given until Aug. 2 to answer the indictments.

Grand Jury May 2

The present jury began work May 2. Attorney General Duffy previously announced he was investigating the Davey administration's methods of raising campaign funds. Many capital observers were under the impression that the parole jury and political fund inquiry body were one and the same. Its foreman and many of its 15 members are unchanged.

Stephenson and Cuff said, however, that despite the similarity of the membership, the present jury was a new one, convened independently upon authority of Common Pleas Judge Dana F. Reynolds. The jury in its last report referred to itself as the jury "of the April term, 1938."

Cuff explained that the attorney general was empowered to request the new jury by a statute directing him to prosecute violators of the state civil service laws.

The parole jury recessed early this year after returning two perjury indictments.

QUEEN'S DEATH REUNITES SONS

Brings About Temporary Reconciliation For Royal Family

BUCHAREST, July 19.—Dwager Queen Marie, in letters opened today, requested that dark lilac be the color of mourning for her and that her heart be embalmed and buried at her favorite resort on the Black sea.

The death of their mother brought at least temporary reconciliation between Queen Marie's two sons, King Carol and Nicholas Brana.

The king summoned his brother the former Prince Nicholas, shorn of his titles and in exile in Italy since April 28, 1937, for marrying a commoner—to attend the funeral of the Queen, who died Monday of an unusual form of cirrhosis of the liver at the age of 62.

King Carol warned Brana, however, that he must leave Roumania immediately after the ceremonies.

A solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Miron, Cristea, prime minister and patriarch of the Roumanian Orthodox church, at the cemetery at Sinaia, seat of Queen Marie's castle where she died. The mass marked the beginning of six months' mourning. Members of the government attended the service.

Theatre Attractions

A film newcomer, and one for whom critics predict a bright career, is Dannielle Darrieux, French stage and screen star, who is co-starring with Douglas Fairbanks in "The Rage of Paris." The picture is the feature attraction at the State tonight and Wednesday.

Miss Darrieux is cast as a beautiful but penniless French girl alone in New York. Desperate, she takes a job posing in the nude for an artist but in her excitement she gets the wrong address and lands in the office of Fairbanks, a young advertising executive. He returns to his office and finds her disrobing.

GUARD STABBED IN PEN FIGHT

Convict Shot, Another Is Beaten In Attempt at Escape

"We want out," they shouted to Walker as they entered his office. "You can't get out like this," Walker argued, and for five minutes he tried to persuade the men to return to their cells.

Finally, he agreed to accompany them to the front gate, but before he left his office he signaled Clerk Rinehart, who spread the alarm to the guard office.

Menges, Staup and three other prisoners figured in a desperate but futile escape attempt Dec. 7, 1936.

With Joseph Filkowski, 36, Frank Benzskowski, 36, both Cleveland robbers, and Leroy Keith, Warren Negro serving life for murder, they seized two guards as a group of 34 men was being herded up a stairway to the cell block for incorrigibles after the evening meal.

Cut Steel Screen

With the guards, W. R. Springer and W. W. Rauch as hostages, they snipped a heavy steel screen from a window with large wire-cutters and attempted to clamber to the ground inside the walls.

William Gardner, at that time the only man in death row and since then executed for a Columbus robbery slaying, declined an invitation to accompany them, saying, "You haven't got a chance."

Gardner's words proved prophetic, as guards menaced the men with guns from the ground and forced them to come down.

The five fled, however, to Deputy Warden Ptak's office and surrendered to him.

At that time, the warden commented that they had taken a long chance but that for such desperate men it probably was "worth the gamble."

Mrs. Roosevelt, Jr., Lying-In Patient

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., was a patient today in the Philadelphia lying-in hospital, but her husband was non-committal about the expected time of the stork's arrival.

"It might even be in September," said the third son of President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

He brought his wife, the former Ethel du Pont, to Philadelphia late yesterday from Owl's Nest, the estate of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene du Pont, near Wilmington, Del.

Mrs. Roosevelt was dressed in navy blue and wore a gold straw hat with turned-up brim as she arrived by automobile from Owl's Nest, where she became the bride of the President's son, June 30, last year.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt have seven grandchildren.
